

the compliment to his ability, character, experience and political sagacity.—(New-York Mail and Express.)

A local paper, a few days ago, referred to a renunciation of "bitter-tempered" veterans at Niagara Falls. The proof reader is probably out of a position.

THE DEFEAT OF MASON YOUNG.

MEMBERS OF THE YALE FACULTY PLEASED WITH HIS SUCCESS.

NEW-HAVEN, June 27.—The Yale faculty generally are greatly pleased with the election of Thomas H. Young to the corporation of Yale College instead of Mason Young of New-York. They were afraid of Young and did not know what he might do. Professor C. S. Lyman, chairman of the management of the Yale Observatory, said this afternoon that for a long time he did not think favorably of Professor H. H. Newton's proposal that such a course would bring the matter properly before the faculty and would give evidence of the amount of mischief Mr. Young was doing by coming here with such schemes as he had foot, and with the opinion that he knew more about the proper way of conducting the college than men who had spent their lives in teaching. For some time Professor Newton desired to have his resignation accepted and it was accepted. He resigned only, it must be remembered, his office of director. He continued on the Board of Managers, of which Professor Lyman is chairman. Mr. Young had desired that the Yale management should be reorganized, but he had been told that such a plan of his own invention might be carried out.

When the corporation met to consider his resignation, a vote was passed to lay the matter on the table, and Mr. Young was withdrawn with a resolution commending his energy and so forth. This decision was not, as Mr. Young says, a victory for him. He is not a member of the corporation, it is not likely to be recalled from the table, and he is not likely to be recalled from the table. Mr. Young is a member of that board of managers of the observatory which Mr. Young was anxious to oust. The only reason for his resignation was that he was not a member of the corporation. This office Professor Newton had been with great reluctance. He is virtually the director.

THE VERDICT AGAINST MR. CURTIS.

NOT FEARED TO BE A MASKED ENEMY.

SIR: Mr. George William Curtis holds that a delegate to a convention is a "free moral agent." Without doubting the morality of a man who would silently acquiesce in measures when remonstrance could have been of some avail, I would like to know what a "free agent" is. If Mr. Curtis was a delegate from a party, he was only free to represent the sentiments of the party for whom he acted as agent, and not to do as he pleased. If he was an "agent," he betrayed his trust. It was a delegate of his own sweet will he had no business to be a delegate.

New-York, June 26, 1884.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TRIBUNE.

SIR: I have just read Mr. Curtis's letter to the Hon. William J. Young. It is so full of the extreme. An enormous proposition lies at its foundation, such as if acted upon would at once disrupt any party organization and indeed prevent one from ever being formed.

For what purpose are delegates to a National Convention elected? What is their commission? And what is the object of the election in sending them? Mr. Curtis assumes that they are selected for the primary object and purpose of defeating some proposed candidate, and that when their efforts in this regard are exhausted, they are to be engaged in party warfare. It can be seen at a glance upon the mere statement, that such a sense of duty thus acted upon must result in party disruption and defeat.

On the other hand, I conceive it to be true that delegates are selected to sit and act as members of a deliberative body, to consider upon and to vote upon the resolutions of the party to be voted upon at the approaching election.

The question is by the deliberate and solemn action of each delegate participating in the convention submitted to the joint sense and judgment of the convention, the members of which are assumed to be equal in power, judgment, honor and devotion to the welfare and success of the party, and the voice and decision of a majority of them is supposed to be the decision of the party.

In this view the question is submitted to the convention as a disputed question of fact to be settled by the decision of each delegate, and not as a question of party warfare. In this view the question is submitted to the convention as a disputed question of fact to be settled by the decision of each delegate, and not as a question of party warfare. In this view the question is submitted to the convention as a disputed question of fact to be settled by the decision of each delegate, and not as a question of party warfare.

Mr. Curtis's theory, in substance and effect, is that he must select the candidate and that he will support the candidate only upon the basis of his superior wisdom by selecting that candidate as he has preferred to be the proper one to be selected. But such a theory is not only a violation of the duty of a delegate, but it is a violation of the duty of a delegate.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

What, then, may be asked, must one situated as Mr. Curtis, who feels his conscience pricked at the thought of supporting an unworthy candidate, do? He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases. He must do as he pleases.

THE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN.

THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

MEMBERS GETTING READY FOR ACTIVE WORK—THE HEADQUARTERS.

R. F. Jones, the new chairman of the Republican National Committee is a substantial business man, who has never served in an official capacity and was never before a member of either a State or National Committee. His firm is that of Jones & Laughlin, from whom, it is said, he was elected to the position of chairman of the committee last evening before starting for his home. "My election as chairman was without my seeking, but the honor is not without appreciation, though I realize the work that is before me. I am confident of the strength of the ticket in the hearts of the American people, and of the success of the party. It would be untrue for me to say anything of general plans for the campaign and I will not attempt to do so. I expect to spend most of my time from now until election day in New-York City."

Samuel Fassenden, of Connecticut, the new Secretary, is a resident of Stamford. He is State Attorney of Fairfield County, and a lawyer of large practice. He was a delegate to the National Convention of 1876, 1880 and 1884. He went home yesterday. Senator Chaffee and S. R. Atkins of the Executive Committee were kept here yesterday in conference with Mr. Jones. They were kept here yesterday in conference with Mr. Jones. They were kept here yesterday in conference with Mr. Jones.

James W. Hays is the President of the club. He is a resident of New-York City. He is a resident of New-York City. He is a resident of New-York City.

RESOLUTIONS FAVORING BLAINE ADOPTED BY A LARGE MAJORITY.

A meeting of the First Ward Republican Association of Brooklyn was called last evening to take action upon the Chicago nominations. There are more than 100 members of the association. They are more than 100 members of the association. They are more than 100 members of the association.

Traders, "hickers" and "dependents" in the city and they rallied their forces and determined to show their strength. No effort was made to get the regular Republicans to attend the meeting other than the insertion of the regular advertisements. The war is so strongly Republican that the attendance at the meetings is usually small. Out of 1,500 members on the books, 74 attended last evening. Stephen Corbett presided.

The resolutions were adopted by a large majority. The resolutions were adopted by a large majority. The resolutions were adopted by a large majority.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

Mr. Dimon supported the resolution in an earnest speech. He said that the opposition to the nominees was almost insuperable. Slender had been buried at them, but just such charges had been made before and they had shown their falsity.

THE OPERA HOUSE MANAGER.

MR. GYE DOUBTLESS THE COMING MAN.

NO CONTRACT YET SIGNED, BUT THE ARRANGEMENTS PRACTICALLY COMPLETED.

For the last few days rumors regarding the Metropolitan Opera House have been numerous. First it was whispered that the contract had been signed with Ernest Gye. Then it was hinted that Gye had finally accepted the terms offered by some of the directors. Now it is said that the contract has been signed with Ernest Gye. The rumor is that the contract has been signed with Ernest Gye. The rumor is that the contract has been signed with Ernest Gye.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager, which he held last season. The negotiations during the last season were not successful. The directors were unwilling to give way. In the first place, there was the guarantee, which Mr. Gye naturally wished to have as large and the directors as small as possible.

In the next place, there was the question of the artists. Mr. Gye refused to bind himself to any pre-arranged company, and the directors insisting that they ought to know who were to have their names on the program.

Mr. Gye and the Metropolitan directors have been in communication for several months. In fact ever since Mr. Abbey definitely retired from the position of manager